How to Design for Augmented and Virtual Reality

■■■ Advanced course

Augmented reality (AR) and virtual reality (VR) are quickly becoming huge areas of technology, with the worldwide user base estimated to reach 443 million by 2025. It is therefore becoming increasingly important for UX designers to know how to create amazing VR and AR experiences—and by downloading this template, you've already begun this exciting journey. Designing for 3D experiences requires completely new ways of thinking about UX design—and our course How to Design for Augmented and Virtual Reality, will help you adapt to these new thought processes. During the course, you'll come across many case studies from spatial and holographic interface designers, as well as useful templates that can guide you through your 3D design processes. Become a master of creating immersive 3D content, provide rich user experiences in the realms of AR and VR, and turn your new-found skills into brand new career opportunities.

About the Interaction Design Foundation

INTERACTION DESIGN
FOUNDATION

With over 66,000 alumni, the Interaction Design Foundation is the biggest design school globally. Industry leaders such as IBM and Adobe train their teams with our courses, and universities such as MIT and the University of Cambridge include our courses in their curricula. Our online courses are taught by industry experts and cover the entire spectrum of UX design from beginner to advanced. We give you industry-recognized course certificates to advance your career. Since 2002, we've put together the world's biggest and most authoritative library of open-source UX Design literature created by such noted authors as Don Norman and Clayton Christensen.
